A young superstar Farah, six, describes herself as the "Superstar of Zatatari". She lives in Zatatari refugee camp with her mum, brother and three older sisters.

Next year is a big year: Farah will start going to a Unicef-supported school. "I am most looking forward to learning," says Farah. "The letters, alphabet, writing."

Farah has lived in Zatatari for four years. "In Syria our house was very, very big," remembers Farah, "but here we only have one caravan."

One in three Syrian children have grown up knowing only crisis. Their childhoods have been shaped by danger, fear and insecurity.

A child is a child, no matter what. With your support tonight, Unicef can help children like Farah safe, warm and happy.

Why Syria?

Syria is one of the most dangerous places to be a child. One in three Syrian children have grown up knowing only crisis. Their childhoods have been shaped by danger, fear and insecurity.

Unicef is one of the few humanitarian agencies working inside Syria, as well as supporting refugees in neighbouring countries. Unicef's teams are working around the clock to provide life-saving food, clean water, education services, health care and psychosocial support to children whose lives have been devastated by the prolonged conflict.

#CookForSYRIA is raising vital funds to help Unicef protect Syrian children.

Your donations are making a difference.

£24 could provide a month's supply of life-saving peanut paste to bring one severely malnourished child back to health.

£50 could help set up a child-friendly space for vulnerable children, where they can play and learn in a safe and secure environment.

£155 could provide a 'School in a Box', containing learning equipment and materials for teachers.

By supporting #CookForSYRIA, you're helping Unicef keep more children safe – thank you.
